Alyssa Parsons AIA LEED AP
bnim ASSOCIATE | ARCHITECTURE

In her 10 years of experience, Alyssa Parsons has contributed to several high-profile projects at BNIM. Her portfolio includes significant contributions to the Pacific Center Campus Development in San Diego; a Precinct Plan and new parking facility at Washington University; the production of several new high-performance buildings at the Summit Bechtel Scout Reserve; the EPA Region 7 Headquarters facility in Lenexa, Kansas; and the adaptive reuse of Westport Middle School into the largest co-working space in the world.

In her roles as project manager and project architect, Alyssa has proven her ability to continually see the big picture while managing the necessary details through each project phase. She is a passionate practitioner and is deeply committed to her projects. Her clients describe her as an exhibitor of thoughtful leadership, even in tough and demanding situations. Internally, her colleagues recognize her as collaborative, detail-oriented, and highly skilled.

Alyssa's passion and commitment extend beyond the boundaries of architecture. A 2020 graduate of the Kansas City Chamber's Centurions Leadership Program, she is a leader within her community. She is actively involved in several initiatives and organizations that all share a common goal: elevating the Kansas City community, particularly realizing the full potential of its urban core. Her thesis research looked into redevelopment opportunities in the West Bottoms and along the River — two areas that are experiencing a resurgence of interest in development.

She is also active at the neighborhood level, representing residents of downtown advocating for developments that support the Greater Downtown Area Plan. Alyssa sits on the Downtown Neighborhood Association's (DNA) Development Committee, serves on the Board of Directors for the Kansas City Design Center, and is a member of the Urban Land Institute (ULI). In 2016, she was appointed to the KCMO Brownfields Commission through which Alyssa has put her research, advocacy, and professional expertise into practice to make real, lasting change in her city.
