bnim ASSOCIATE PRINCIPAL | ARCHITECTURE

Katie is an Associate Principal in BNIM's Kansas City office with more than 17 years of experience. She works collaboratively with owner representatives, design consultants, and colleagues to lead design processes that transform diverse learning and social environments. She is a natural problem solver and mentor who approaches each challenge with tenacity, perseverance and grace.

Katie enjoys developing a deep contextual understanding of each project's existing conditions and performance issues, defining relevant project goals, and establishing the group's collective vision for project outcomes. She believes it is important to establish a deep collective understanding of project priorities — design strategies, performance objectives, budget, and schedule goals — during the early phases of conceptual design. Her most recent project experience includes leadership on a new College of Business Administration facility for Marquette University and design of a sanctuary space for Beth Shalom.

Katie is part of BNIM's Sustainability Group, focusing on sustainability efforts across the practice, and has co-led the People Group, guiding conversations, exploring opportunities, and soliciting input from BNIM staff. Katie has also been a strong and visible supporter of AIA, staying involved with AIA Kansas over the years- including serving as Board President in 2018- and continues to help in the development of leadership programs within the organization.
